Peter Chappell

BSc Hons. Electronics; PG Cert. Control Engineering, Cambridge
Honorary Fellow of Society of Homeopaths
Co-director, Source Medicine

Started life as a research and development engineer working in the aerospace industry (rocket engineering!) and then transferred to the business computing industry. I had three USA patents granted in his name and others by the age of 25. Carried on innovation when became a homeopath, for example produced the first homeopathic computer software that worked in real time in the consulting room.

Ran a homeopathic practice in London from the 1970s to the 1990s, treating people from all over the world. Directed three clinics of alternative medicine in London at that time. Helped organise the teaching and practice of modern classical homoeopathy internationally, including setting up the Society of Homeopaths in the UK. During the 1990s, and organised training programmes with teams of homoeopaths and ran master classes and teaching clinics in many diverse countries and cultures, for example, Beirut in Lebanon, Cairo in Egypt, Honduras, Sarajevo in Bosnia, Novi Sad and Belgrade in Yugoslavia, Brno and Prague in the Czech Republic, Bucharest in Romania (including an ongoing clinical program offering treatment for free in twelve orphanages housing thousands of children), Sofia in Bulgaria, Bratislava in Slovakia, Budapest in Hungary, Malta, Alchopa, Nicaragua, Addis Ababa in Ethiopia, Zagreb and Split in Croatia, Malta, etc. He set up professions of homoeopathy in countries where often it didn't exist. Many thousands of homoeopaths have been trained and the training continues to this day.

His book Emotional Healing with Homoeopathy is based upon his experiences in many countries, and many people have become homoeopaths after reading it. It has been translated into many languages and has been in print now for 25 years.

In 2000 he discovered that his burning, overwhelming, heart-felt passion was to do something about HIV and AIDS in Africa. No AIDS drugs were reaching Africa at this point and millions were dying of AIDS. This became his sole purpose at this time and he set about achieving it. He quit his UK practice, borrowed money off his property and went to work in Ethiopia in October 2001. Then began a whole new chapter of his life, leading to the development of Source Medicine.
